History [edit]

Poker has been appearing on television somewhat regularly since the late-1970s. In the United States, CBS started airing the final table of the World Series of Poker (WSOP) Main Event as an annual one-hour show around this time and later by ESPN, which were casino-produced shows produced under a time-buy arrangement for sports omnibus programming such as the CBS Sports Spectacular. For many years, the coverage was less than robust because viewers at home could not see what cards the players had or follow their progress visually through graphics. Instead, the coverage essentially involved the commentators guessing what cards the players had in a documentary style production.

In 1997, the hole cam, which allows audiences to see the hidden cards that players held in their hands, was introduced in Europe. The hole cam was patented by WSOP bracelet winner Henry Orenstein and first used in the Late Night Poker television series. It was used again in the inaugural Poker Million tournament in 2000 which boasted the attraction of the first £1,000,000 poker game on live television. By 1996, however, the ESPN one-hour highlight show only included hands that were shown down, so that the commentators, including Gabe Kaplan, could comment, in post-production, on the hands while they were being played out. The commentators referred to this as "taking a peek at the cards", and provided the first contemporary announcing on hands during the play in poker history. By 2001, however, Late Night Poker had been cancelled in the UK and televised poker could no longer be found in Europe. In the US, the 1999, 2000, and 2001 World Series of Poker events were only broadcast in one-hour documentaries on the Discovery Networks.

In 1999, documentary filmmaker Steven Lipscomb produced and directed a documentary on the WSOP for the Discovery Channel. It was the first U.S. poker production funded entirely by a television network rather than the casino. When the 1999 WSOP aired, it doubled its audience over the hour time slot. Seeing the audience reaction, Lipscomb believed there was an untapped market and began pitching poker series ideas to cable and network television. Because poker had been on the air for over twenty years, with little viewer interest, broadcasters were unwilling to commit resources to put a series on the air.

In October 2001, Lipscomb wrote a business plan. Along with poker player Mike Sexton and poker business woman Linda Johnson, Lipscomb approached casino mogul and avid poker player, Lyle Berman, whose company Lakes Entertainment agreed to fund the World Poker Tour (WPT)—the first organized and televised tour of poker tournaments in the world.

Resumen: Partido amistoso de las Matildas termina en un empate sin inspiración

Se esperaba que las preguntas después del partido amistoso de las Matildas contra China el viernes por la noche giraran en torno a quién había destacado para obtener uno de los pocos lugares disponibles en el equipo Olímpico de París. Sin embargo, después de un desempeño sin inspiración y una preocupante falta de profundidad más allá del once inicial, las preguntas siguen siendo las mismas.

Un partido sin oportunidades claras

A pesar de las sustituciones realizadas por Gustavsson en el segundo tiempo, las Matildas lucharon por encontrar espacios en la defensa china y solo pudieron registrar un tiro al arco después de los 50 minutos. China, por su parte, fue más peligrosa y tuvo más oportunidades de anotar.

Foord se lesiona y las suplentes decepcionan

El partido se complicó aún más cuando Caitlin Foord, posiblemente la jugadora más importante del equipo, sufrió una lesión en el sóleo solo 15 minutos después de ingresar como suplente. Ninguna de las jugadoras que ingresaron en el segundo tiempo logró impresionar y asegurar su lugar en el equipo Olímpico.

Preocupaciones de cara a los Juegos Olímpicos

Con partidos contra Estados Unidos, Alemania y Zambia en el horizonte, las Matildas necesitan encontrar soluciones rápidamente para evitar una actuación decepcionante en los Juegos Olímpicos de París.
